

A few of our favorite things

We like stuff. A lot. And every month we run across a few things we can't believe we ever survived without. This is that stuff.

"The dog tag style of this necklace is totally hip, and the 'Bebe Love' and heart engravings are so cute alongside your baby's name and birthday." —JENN, assistant editor
Mommy Tag Necklace: Bliss Living, $75

"These colorful wall cards are fantastic because they're more than cute—they also give your baby's nursery an educational element." —JENN, assistant editor
Alphabet Wall Cards: Eeboo, $25

"Forget toy burgers and fries—this adorable wooden play set lets your little one go gourmet." —AMY, editor in chief
Wooden Sushi Play Set: Chase's Closet, $25

"I love the idea of a bassinet, but not the usual 80s prom dress styling of them. This sleek, modern design is simply gorgeous." —AMY, editor in chief
Ninna Nanna Bassinet: Monte Design, $480

"These slippers are as cozy and comfortable as they look. They are a must have whether you're packing for the hospital or just hanging out around the house." —ERIN, fashion editor
Slippers: Dearfoams, $18

"This bubble bath and soap are guaranteed to make baby's bathtime even more fun—and the fact that they smell so good made it hard to resist using them for my own bath time treats." —CAREN, assistant fashion editor
Soap and Body Wash: Noodle & Boo, $6 and $14

"I love my diaper clutch – it holds a few diapers, baby wipes and even a small bottle of hand sanitizer, so everything I need to change a diaper is right there in one chic little pouch." —LACEY, senior editor
Black Disco Dot Clutch: The Diaper Clutch, $16
